What does +0.8 mean?

On average, students achieved almost a full grade above their school targets across their best eight GCSEs, including Religious Studies. These targets are called Minimum Expected Grades (MEGs). This is the school's own progress measure.

What does 64.2 mean?

Attainment 8 combines results in eight qualifying subjects, with English and Maths counting twice. The school average of 64.2 points equates to a weighted average grade of 6.42 - between GCSE grades 6 and 7. It is a points score, not a percentage.
